Pittsburg Steel to Increase Stock Streets Claim Council's Attention

ESTABLISHMENT OF GRADES FOR STREETS IS ORDERED

Council Instructs Engineer to Set Stakes on Look-out Avenue and on Cherry Alley

PETITION FOR LIGHT IS ACTED UPON

With all memos present except Councilman C. O. Frye, who was out of town council spent last evening at a regular adjourned session, in finishing up business left over from a previous meeting. Streets and lights claimed most of the attention, and some matters of importance were disposed of.

One thing on which action was taken was to have the grade set on Cherry alley, between Third and Fourth street. This will mean the cutting down of an annoying hump and be a step toward the much desired paving of this alley.

The final estimate for paving and grading work done on McKean avenue between Charleroi and North Charleroi by Piper and Hastings, was made, and the job having been pronounced satisfactory, the balance of $349.66 due in their favor was ordered paid. A petition largely signed by members of the Methodist Episcopal congregation and property owners for an arc light at the corner of Sixth street and Lincoln avenue was received and favorably acted upon. The light committee was instructed to see that the light at the corner of Lincoln avenue at the northern extremity of the borough be changed to a more suitable location on McKean avenue.

The borough engineer was instructed to procure the grade of Look-out avenue between Second and Third streets and to set stakes so that permanent sidewalks can be laid. The matter of granting the Macbeth-Evans Glass company rights to occupy Eighth street for contemplated improvements was discussed, but no action taken. Owing to the absence of Mr. Frye who is chairman of a special committee on the sewage disposal plant matter, this question was not taken up.

FIGHT TO ABOLISH BOYS' NIGHT WORK IN GLASS FACTORIES

Child Labor Association Endeavoring to Push Matter Before the Legislature at Early Date

SHORT HOURS FOR BOYS IN CHARLEROI PLANTS

A movement has been started by the Pennsylvania Child Labor Association that will have a material bearing in Charleroi. This is to prohibit boys under 16 years of age from working in glass factories at night. At the 1909 session of the Legislature when the present child labor laws were enacted, glass factories were not included in the night work exemption clause. It is necessary to operate glass plants continuously night and day in most instances, and it was pointed out that as the adjoining States did not prohibit night work by boys under 16 such a law would work a hardship on the glass manufacturers of Pennsylvania, and render them unable to compete with their rival in the adjoining States. A large amount of the work in glass ware plants is done by boys, and if an industry in one section were obliged to pay more for this labor than in other sections, the former would practically be put out of business.

Investigations were made at the Imperial Bottle factory in Charleroi at the time, where the largest number of minors are employed nights, and it was shown that the hours were not excessive nor the duties any more arduous than usual, and that, if the boys on the night turn went home and retired promptly when their work was finished, they had ample time for rest and recuperation.

Since then, however, New Jersey has abolished night work for boys in glass houses and it is also prohibited in Ohio, Illinois and New York. This year the campaign for night work abolitionism will be pushed in West Virginia, Indiana and Pennsylvania. Action has been taken by the Pennsylvania Child Labor Association in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and a vigorous effort will be made to secure an amendment to the child labor laws which will prohibit the employment of boys' nights under 16 years of age.

LARGE STEEL CORPORATION INCREASING CAPITALIZATION

Extensive Improvements to Be Made as Previously Announced at the Monessen Plant

STOCK INCREASE WILL BE $8,000,000

Details of the plan for financing the construction of blast furnaces to be erected at Monessen by the Pittsburg Steel company have just been made public. The announcement that these improvements were to be made at Monessen was first published in the Mail on October 26. This announcement was not confirmed at the time by the company, but subsequent events have proven that the information secured and made public by the Mail was correct.

According to the published statement the Pittsburg Steel company proposes to increase its capital stock by $8,000,000. The increase will consist of $7,000,000 new 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $1,000,000 additional common stock, which will bring the company's capitalization to 7,000,000 preferred and 7,000,000 common stock. Wallace H. Rowe, the president of the company, left for New York Saturday night and last night communicated to members of the company in Pittsburgh that the negotiations for the new issue had all been completed.

Speyer and Co. of New York have closed negotiations for the purchase of the $7,000,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, preferred as to both assets and dividends over the common stock and the $1,000,000 common stock has been subscribed for by the present owners of the property. The preferred stock will be listed on the New York Stock Exchange and Speyer and Co will place the same with investors and institutions both here and abroad.

The present board of directors, consisting of Wallace H. Rowe, president; John Bindley, first vice president; Willis F. McCook, second vice president; Emil Winter, E. H. Bindley and George Nash will be increased to nine members and it is understood that William H. Nicholas, the chairman of the General Chemical company of New York; Wm. A. Nash, president of the Corn Exchange Bank of New York and Henry Ruhlender of Speyer and Co. will enter the directorate.

The present bondholders will be offered the privilege of exchanging their bonds, called for repayment January 1, 1911, for the new preferred stock at the Union Trust company of Pittsburgh. The new preferred stock will be the first charge on the earnings of the company which for the past few years have averaged about $1,400,000 or almost three times the annual dividend on the $7,000,000 7 per cent preferred stock to be issued, or at the rate of about 20 per cent per annum.

Among the improvements planned is the building of a battery of blast furnaces at Monessen to supply the company with its own pig-iron. The company purchased the ground for the new furnaces sometime ago and it is announced that the contracts for the ore, coke and other necessities have been placed.

JUDGMENT AGAINST GLASS MEN CAUSES SHUTDOWNS

Suit Instrumental in Reduction Of Wages

ACTION IS INEVITABLE

Window Workers' Union Faces Prospect of Accepting Lower Scale

The action of the Government in declaring the Imperial Window Glass company a violator of the Sherman anti-trust law and other fining of the officers with the warning to dissolve the corporation will work a hardship on the window glass workers in the several plants under the control of the defendant corporation.

It was officially stated that unless there is a special meeting of the National Window Glass Workers' Union to readjust the wage scale which means a heavy reduction in wages every glass company in the country making hand made glass will be forced to go out of business. J. M. Neenan, president of the workers' organization it is understood, will call a meeting of the executive committee this week to take steps to have the wage scale revised.

Word was received in Pittsburgh Saturday night that every factory controlled by the Imperial company in Fayette county will block tanks indefinitely. This action will throw out of employment between 700 and 800 men. Three of the factories are already blocked in the Confederated and Point Marion factories at Point Marion and Fairclances plant at Fairchance. The Maestown and Jeanette factories will follow it and this week will see every tank in the country idle. Two tanks at Morgantown, W. Va., were blocked on Thursday. There is little hope of resumption unless the men decide to accept a reduction of 30 per cent in their wages. There is no chance of an increase in the price of glass because of the American Window Glass company's low cost on machine-made glass.

He is a capable man for the place. Mr. Tener will return home Wednesday.

CRUSADE STARTED FOR OBSERVANCE OF SABBATH

Monessen Ministers Institute Movement for Betterment of Moral Conditions Across River

HAPPENINGS IN THE NEIGHBORING TOWN

Monessen ministers have inaugurated a crusade for a better observance of the Sabbath in the steel town, judging from some of the sermons delivered Sunday from the local pulpits there. It seems that the ministers have been making a study of conditions for the past six months or more, and some hot shot were fired at the alleged violators of that commandment. One of the ministers made the statement that anything could be bought in Monessen on Sunday from a suit of clothes or an order of groceries to a drink of booze. Clubs do a thriving business, while speakeasies and gambling joints are also alleged to be in operation. It is possible that an effort will be made to screw down the lid in view of these ministerial exposures.

Monessen is becoming quite a pugilistic centre. Since Prof. Al. Martin has opened his athletic club in the steel town he has put on at the opera house some clever boxing exhibitions, which have been participated in by several Charleroi boxers. At each of these exhibitions Martin secures the services of a professional of his own class, and with himself the other principal gives a clever main bout. The preliminaries are usually by local principals from the adjoining towns, many of whom are Martin's pupils. Last Saturday night Martin met Jimmy Trimble, a lightweight from Pittsburgh, and had a shade the better of the 6stic argument. Preliminaries were by Ed. Neudorfer of Monessen and Young Gilmore of Charleroi, and Brownie O'Toole of Monessen and Wm. Coulter of Charleroi. Gilmore was put to sleep, but Coulter fought his man to a draw.

opinion that Monessen is in need of a moral house-cleaning in the way of ridding the town of some human vampires that prey upon the well known weaknesses of human nature. His observation was prompted by a case in hand when he fined Mrs. Georgia Antura $25 and costs. Georgia was charged with making goosy eyes at John Seora and Salvadore DeChino, and when she had lured them into an alley she is alleged to have dexterously touched them for $35 and $15 respectively. The woman is said to be an expert in this ancient badger game.

The Bachelors have issued invitations for a Thanksgiving dance to be given Tuesday evening, November 22, in Turner hall. Gounod's orchestra has been engaged for the occasion and the event gives promise of being one of the popular social successes of the season.

The Star concert band under the management of J. G. Staudenmayer is rehearsing a program to be rendered at a free concert in Turner hall on Sunday evening, Nov. 27. After the first of next month the band will be known as the Monessen Turner band.

The Lady Maccabees and their friends are cordially invited to attend a social to be given at the home of Mrs. Peter Schone, corner Seventh and Schoonmaker avenue, this evening. Cards and other amusements will be indulged in. A fifteen cent lunch will be served.

of the Lady Maccabees. The hostess was agreeably surprised, but entered into the occasion in her usual hospitable manner. She was presented with a beautiful bunch of jumbo chrysanthemums and a maiden hair fern. A delicious and bountiful lunch was served. The evening was spent in instrumental music and social conversation.

WORKMAN CAUGHT UNDER WHEELS OF HOPPER CAR

BILLS IGNORED BY GRAND JURY Liquor Cases Will Not Come To Trial in the County Courts

The grand jury at Washington yesterday ignored bills against three alleged booze sellers. These were Frank Andriara, selling liquor without license and on Sunday; William McCleary, prosecutor Frank Bertwich selling liquor without license and on Sunday; William McCleary prosecutor. Mike Cherry, selling liquor without license and on Sunday; William McCleary prosecutor. In all of the ignored bills the costs were placed on the county.

Man Is Horribly Injured At the Local Siding

IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Not noticing the approach of a shifting engine to the string of cars, in the hopper of one of which he was working, Mike Pollock, a Slav employed by the Donora Construction company, had his left leg crushed a few inches above the ankle yesterday. The man was engaged in shoveling gravel from the hopper of the car on local siding. When the engine bumped into the string of cars he was thrown under the wheels and one leg was caught. Pollock was released and Dr. J. K. Smith called. The man was taken to the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela, and it will be necessary to amputate the leg below the knee. He lived at Tenth street and is about 45 years old.

Helps Us Too

The definite announcement that the Pittsburgh Steel company is to build blast furnaces at Monessen means a big industrial development for this section. While this addition will primarily benefit Monessen, the
proximity of that town to Charleroi,
and the connection of the two communities by the new bridge at North Charleroi, practically unites Charleroi with Monessen, and any improvement in the one town must of necessity have more or less influence upon the other. This improvement will give a big impetus to the hustling steel town across the river, and will add materially to the population, standing and prestige.
Thus, vicariously, will Charleroi be benefited. Our town will catch the overflow from Monessen, which will be considerable at the start. This addition should advance the interests of North Charleroi, and enhance its importance as a residence community.
That community offers some splendid opportunities for homes for working people, and in all probability this will be utilized to the fullest extent during the next two or three years.

House Diseases

The free exhibits and lectures about tuberculosis to be given at Monessen and Monongahela shortly should command the attention of the public.
The object of these lectures, which are under the auspices of the State Board of Health, is to impress upon the people the danger of contracting this dread disease as well as to avoid the tendencies that invite its contagion. The lecturers will no doubt warn the people that this season of the year is conducive to colds, pneumonia, bronchitis and all other affections of the respiratory organs. They will also properly dwell upon the fact that tuberculosis and respiratory affections are house diseases, and due for the most part to lack of fresh air.
All this is good advice. It is now conceded that the only treatment for tuberculosis is fresh air, and if this will cure preliminary cases of the Great White Plague, it must of necessity have a prophylactic influence upon respiratory affections which are the bane of the shut-in population everywhere. Get out in the air every day and move around if you would avoid colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and kindred affections. These are all house diseases, and they can be most successfully combatted by the preventive treatment of fresh air and exercise.

Agitation Hurts

With the close of the campaign
and election over, it is well to drop the agitation that has divided the people of this Commonwealth and kept business practically at a standstill while the merits and demerits of the respective candidates were discussed. Feeling ran high,
and in many instances much personal rancor was manifested. In the interests of social, personal and business relations this should be dropped and not permitted to continue to the extent of creating local or personal factions or feuds. The vanquished should gracefully take his medicine and the victor can afford to be gracious and not rub it in.

There is nothing to apprehend from
the result of the election in the State. The government will be in safe hands and will be continued along
the same clean and progressive lines that marked Governor Stuart's administration. The people will not stand for anything else, and in view of the spirit of insurgency that has been manifested every official from highest to lowest will be obliged to put forth every effort to "make good" in the eyes of the public. The officials must administer public affairs in the interest of all citizens alike, and no discriminations can be made. Useless opposition and agitation is harmful like to both the agitators and the community.

AMAZING BOLDNESS IN THEFT

Man Steals Horse While Owner Stands and Looks On

While H. H. Yount, a Monongahela liveryman, was standing in front of the Adams Express company office, in Monongahela last evening at 10:30 o'clock waiting for the late Marianna train, a stranger walked up on the opposite side of Yount's horse, and cutting the halter with which it was hitched to a post, jumped on and rode away. Yount was facing the man not ten feet away when the deed was done, but he was so astonished by the daring of the robbery that he was unable to recover his self possession until the man was out of sight and hearing.
This morning the horse was traced up Pigeon Creek, as far as Withrow's blacksmith shop by its tracks, but nothing more has been heard of it or the man. On the horse was a Texas saddle and a tan bridle. Yount failed to recognize the thief in the darkness, but thought he wore a cap.

To increase the interest of the pupils of the upper grades of the public school and high school in the study of the better class of literature, arrangements have been made for Fred Rushland of New York, a noted reader, to produce Longfellow's famous poem, "Evangeline" and another select poem at school hall on Wednesday afternoon. In connection with the readings by Mr. Rushland, a brief musical program will be rendered in which Prof. I. T. Daniel, music supervisor in the schools, Mrs.
Daniel and Miss May Barth will take part. The entertainment will begin at 2:30 o'clock and the expenses will be defrayed by a collection at the door. Patrons of the school have been extended a special invitation to attend.

BURNS CUTS, BRUISES

San Cura Ointment Stops Pain at Once, Draws Out all Poisons, and Heals Promptly

In all the world there is no ointment, no liniment, no remedy for burns, cuts and bruises that can compare with the antiseptic ointment called San Cura.

Every person ought to have a jar on hand; it is the first and best aid to the injured in case of accident and is the ideal remedy for so many other distressing and painful ailments besides.

For example: it is guaranteed by W. F. Hennings to cure itching, bleeding and protruding piles, eczema, tetter, ulcers, salt rheum, boils, carbuncles and pimples or money back.

In case of old or running sores, no matter how long standing, a few poultices of San Cura ointment will draw out every particle of poison, and
leave it in such a thoroughly antiseptic condition that the sore will heal, never break open again.

We advise every reader to get a jar of San Cura ointment today and keep it ready for an accident or emergency that may happen. 25 cents and 50 cents at W. F. Hennings' on the money back plan.

SOAP FOR THE SCALP.

San Cura Soap is delightful for shampooing, because it is full of antiseptic properties that banish the germs of dandruff and other impurities from the scalp. It cures pimples and blackheads too. 25 cents a cake at

Miners In Court

On two counts of violating the bituminous mining law, George Cosalonis, alias George Cranis, entered a plea of guilty in court at Washington yesterday, and was sentenced to pay the costs and a fine of $25 or serve three months in jail. Cosalonis was employed in the Hazel Kirk mine No.
3, of the Pittsburgh-Westmoreland Coal company. On August 9 he prepared a charge of carbonite and refused to place his pit lamp five feet or more away from him.

August Wright admitted that he furnished liquor on Sunday and was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $50 and serve a term of 30 days in jail.
Wright is from Union township. The grand jury ignored the bill on a charge of selling liquor without license and indicted him with furnishing liquor on Sunday.

Upon motion of Rufus S. Marriner and J. R. McCreight, counsel for Eli Neeld, charged with killing his wife several weeks ago, the court continued the trial of the case until the February term. The reason given was the sickness of material witnesses.

the advertising of the Cortright Metal Roofing company, 50 North Twenty-third street, Philadelphia, which has been appearing in the Mail for some months past and it is hoped those who have had reason to be interested in roofing material have profited thereby.
The Cortright company is by far the largest maker of metal shingles in the world, and their product is well

United States. They are always glad prices to those likely to be in need of roofing, or to refer them to a nearby

RESTAURANTS.

They Really Had Their Origin In the First French Revolution.

The restaurant of the present time had its origin in the first French revolution, toward the close of the eighteenth century. And the reputation of the French for good cookery and the delicacy of taste in eating as well as in producing toothsome dishes and morsels dates practically from the same time.

That revolution meant ruin to many noble families, and their downfall meant ruin also for their chefs, so some of the latter hit upon the idea of opening houses where dainties prepared by their skilled hands could be obtained. If the experiment succeeded the chefs would be as well off as when in service. The idea was pleasing to the public, the restaurants did a large business, and the proprietors had no reason to regret the revolution from a monetary point of view.

Then it occurred to others that the people might appreciate being educated up to this fine cookery, and many books on the culinary art were published and sold well. One of the most noted of these was "The Gourman Almanack," which appeared in 1793.

MAKING NEEDLES.

Various Processes Through Which the Steel Wire Must Pass.

Needles are made from steel wire, which is first cut by shears from coils into the length of the needles to be made. After a bath of such bits as have been cut out they are placed in a furnace, then rolled until perfectly straight. Next the needle pointer takes up a dozen or so of the wires and rolls them between his thumb and finger, with their ends on a turning grindstone, first one and then the other being ground. The little steel bobbins are next fed into a machine which flattens and gutters the heads, after which the eyes are punched.

They are now complete needles, but rough and easily bent. Careful heating and sudden cooling gives them the necessary temper, and nothing remains but to give them their final polish. On a coarse cloth needles are spread to the number of 40,000 or 50,000. Emery dust is strewn over them, oil is sprinkled on and soft soap daubed over the cloth, which, rolled tightly, is thrown into a pot with others, where it rolls about for twelve hours or more.

When taken from this friction bath the needles require only rinsing in clean hot water, when they are ready to be sorted and packed. — Chicago Tribune.

Fulton and the Clermont.

The first trip of Robert Fulton up the Hudson river in the Clermont was thus described in the American Citizen of Aug. 17, 1810:

"Mr. Fulton's ingenious Steam Boat, invented with a View to the Navigation of the Mississippi from New Orleans upwards, sails today from the North River, near the State Prison, to Albany. The Velocity of The Steam Boat is Calculated at four miles an hour. It is said that it will make a progress of two against The Current of The Mississippi, and if so it will certainly be a very valuable acquisition to the Commerce of the Western States."

According to Edward Hazaman Hall's history, the Clermont made the trip to Albany in thirty-two hours.
The state prison referred to stood on the block in New York now bounded by Washington, West Tenth, West and Charles Streets, in old Greenwich village.

Beginning.

Be always beginning. Never think that you can relax or that you have attained the end. If we think ourselves more than beginners it is a sign that we have hardly yet begun.

Man thinks and at once becomes the master of beings that do not think.— Buffon.

THE "BREAK" IN THE GAME

Baseball Almost as Much Psychological as Athletic.

Nearly every baseball game is won and lost on one play—a play that comes at the psychological instant.
Among the players who do not study psychology the crucial moment is known as "the break," a phenomenon which no one has analyzed and which the players themselves do not understand. Twenty men on the bench are watching closely and intently every move of the pitcher, every swing of his arm. The tide of battle rises, ebbs, and then suddenly at the start of some inning something happens. What it is no one outside the psychic sphere of influence ever will understand. But the silent, tight lipped, watchful, alert fellows on the bench see something or feel something, and the mysterious "break" has come.

"One ball!" The players on the bench suddenly stiffen and prepare for action.

"Two balls!" Two players jump for bats and begin swinging them; the coaches, who have yelled only because it was their duty, suddenly begin raging, screaming and pawing the dirt, and the manager, who has appeared half asleep, makes a trumpet of his hands and leads his men, bawling loud orders and wild taunts.

The spectators do not understand anything has happened. Other batters have had two balls called many times, and it looks the same to the spectator who is beyond the mysterious "break" sphere. In two more moments the players' bench is a madhouse, with twenty men shouting, screaming, ordering, moving. "Three balls!" and a madman rushes out to the "deck."
"Four balls!" and the spectators join the players in the demonstration. The madness is spreading. Crack—a base hit, a bunt, a wild throw; another base hit, screams, shouts, imprecations, a roar of frantic applause, a final long yell. The manager reaches for his glove, spits into it and says quietly, "Four runs—we've got 'em." The "break" is over, and the players' bench is again the quietest part of the grounds. The surge of enthusiasm, confidence and noise subsides, and the game is won.

Baseball is almost as much psychological as athletic. Why one team can beat a stronger one regularly and lose to a weaker with the same regularity, why one batter can hit one pitcher and is helpless before another, why one pitcher is effective against a strong team and at the mercy of another that cannot bat half as hard, are psychological problems.—American Magazine.

A MISER'S END.

Meanness of M. Vandille and the Way He Hastened His Death.

M. Vandille was chief magistrate at Boulogne and by miserly habits left a fortune of $4,000,000. His usual diet was bread and milk. The bread cost very little, and after eating his loaf at home his habit was to become his own public milk inspector, whom as chief magistrate he had the right to appoint.
And so, as he declared, to protect the inhabitants from being imposed upon by an inferior quality of milk he took his walk immediately after eating his loaf and demanded to taste the milk of every salesman he passed, thus saving himself from purchasing any. Misers are generally strong men—they have to be so in order to live a life of privation—but eventually Vandille, like other misers, was seized with illness, and the surgeons had to be called in. In those days they bled their patients. The surgeon asked Vandille half a livre for the operation, but the mis-ere ordered him at once out of his sight and sent for the apothecary. The apothecary refused to cut the price down, so Vandille sent for a poor barber, who undertook to open a vein for three sous a time.

"Aye, but," said this worthy economist, "how often, friend, will it be necessary to bleed me?"

"Three times."

"And what quantity of blood do you intend to take each time?"
"Eight ounces."

"Well, but why can't you take the whole twenty-four ounces at once?
You want to make a job of me, you scoundrel! Here, sir, there are your three sous. Take the twenty-four ounces immediately." The barber was generous to obey. M. Vandille lost the twenty-four ounces of blood and died in a few days, leaving all his vast treasures to the king, whom he made his sole heir. — Strand Magazine.

The Oldest Bridge in Paris.

The Pont Notre Dame is the oldest bridge in Paris. It was first built in 1413 in the reign of Charles VI., but it was carried away, together with the houses which lined it, by ice floor when the frost broke in 1499. A new bridge was begun at once under the direction of Jean Jocoande of Verona and was ready for traffic in 1507. On that bridge stood the famous picture shop of Gersaint, which had a sign-board specially painted for it by Wat-teau. — Westminster Gazette.

"You don't mean to tell me you pay a

"Oh, no!" replied Mrs. Urbanville.
"We only pay her $2 a week for cook-

DEMOCRATS ARE ALREADY AT WAR

Many of Them Are Alarmed At Champ Clark's Reckless Threats

THIS STATE IN SAFE HANDS

Senator Penrose Will Advance to a Position of Real Importance at the Next Session of the American Congress.

The Democrats of the country are already at each other's throats over the spoils of their very uncertain political victory. Scarcely had the votes been counted after the election of last week when Champ Clark, of Missouri, probably the most conspicuous Democrat in the American Congress, threw the leaders of his party in the country into a spasm by declaring that he would not only be the next speaker of the lower house of Congress but also that his first and most important business would be to see to it that the tariff legislation under which the industries of the country are now operating successfully should be revised and recast in harmony with the free trade doctrine of his party. Mr. Clark, the Missouri Congressman, is very able and ordinarily is very interesting. So long as he was conspicuous only as the minority leader in Congress he was deservedly popular, but when his party had advanced to the majority in the lower house what he had promised during his campaign and what he threatened after his election became more or less alarming, especially to his colleagues from the South, many of whom had voted with the Republicans in the enactment of the existing tariff laws which have continued prosperity in the North and advanced industrial conditions generally in the South. When Mr. Clark had thrilled his Missouri audiences during his campaign for re-election by declaring that if the next House should be Democratic he certainly would be elected speaker to succeed Uncle Joe Cannon and after his election he would regularly go from his Washington home to the national capital in a farm wagon drawn by two Missouri mules people generally understood that he was joking. This was especially true of the people outside of Missouri. But the fellows down in old Missouri, where they insist upon being shown, accepted his declaration in good faith and they are insisting that his campaign pledges be carried out to the letter. However, there are other Democrats in Congress and they are against the Missouri mule stunt and they are just as decidedly against the Clark declaration that the tariff laws shall be torn up by the roots and the indications are that Mr. Clark will not be allowed to parade himself as Democracy's leader behind the Missouri mules going to and from his congressional duties and as a guarantee that his campaign pledges were for vote getting purposes and intended as dust to blind the voters he is not likely to be chosen speaker as the leaders of his own party will approach the question of tariff revision with the greatest fear and trembling and when they do approach it Mr. Clark is more likely to be a clown than a leader. Mr. Clark, however, will not be the only Democrat in Congress who will go there pledged to a variety of ridiculous propositions. Quite a few of the gentlemen elected to Congress by the Democrats and Keystoneers in Pennsylvania are pledged to work wonders immediately after their arrival in Washington. These pledges like Mr. Clark's pledge to go to and from his congressional duties in a farm wagon drawn by Missouri mules were not made in good faith. They were made because they appealed to the voters who allowed their prejudices to be played upon and who helped the scheming candidates to outrage their intelligence. The Democratic side of the lower house of Congress will be the larger. On that majority side will be representatives of all the political isms—representatives pledged to every popular policy from the rank free-trader to the anarchist—but the Senate will be safely and sanely Republican. The total membership of the Senate is 92 and of these 51 will be Republicans. Back of this majority in the Senate will be President Taft, who is also safe and sane, so that the reckless pledges made by the bulk of the majority in the lower house actually served their real purpose when they fooled the voters into making the lower house of Congress Democratic or rather miscellaneous.

Fortunately, indeed, Pennsylvania will not suffer much from the recent freak election. The Legislature of this State will be overwhelmingly Republican and the State is certain to have two Republican United States Senators at Washington. No serious opposition is likely to develop to the election of George T. Oliver to succeed himself and with Senator Boies Penrose, the senior Senator from the State, recognized and accepted as the leader of his party not only in the Senate but in the Nation; his accepted intimacy with President Taft and his deep concern for industrial prosperity not only in Pennsylvania but in the Nation, Pennsylvanians generally have reason and ground for real pride. Senator Penrose will be at the head of several of the most important committees in the next Senate. The Southern brigadiers will head all the important committees on the House side and under such circumstances it will be the pleasure of Pennsylvanians to get as close as possible to Senator Penrose who must be depended upon to safeguard the best interests of the whole people while the make-shift statesmen are endeavoring to make good their freak campaign pledges. The interests of the people of Pennsylvania are therefore fortunately in safe hands.

Chinese Filial Piety.
The following Chinese story illustrates the national regard for filial piety: A man and his wife maltreated the husband's mother. As a punishment the scene of the act was openly cursed, the active agents were put to death, and the mother of the wife was bamboozed, branded and exiled for her daughter's crime. The house in which the offenders lived was dug up from the foundations. Moreover, the scholars of the district were precluded from attending public examinations, and even the magistrates were deprived of their offices. These drastic measures were designed to render the empire filial.

TRY THIS FOR CATARRH

Get a Hyomei, pronounce it High-o-me, outfit today.

Pour a few drops from the bottle into the inhaler that comes with the outfit, and breathe it in four or five times a day.

What To Do

Sickly Children

Letters from Mothers

"I wish I could induce every mother, who has a delicate, sickly child, to try your delicious Cod Liver and Iron Tonic VINOL. It restored our little daughter to health and strength after everything else had failed."—Mrs. C. W. STUMP, Canton, Ohio.

Mrs. F. P. Skonnard, of Minneapolis, Minn., writes, "I want to recommend VINOL to every mother who has a weak or sickly child. My little boy was sickly, pale, and had no appetite for two years. I tried different medicines and doctors without benefit, but thanks to VINOL, he is a well and healthy boy to-day."

C. Allen, of New Bedford, Mass., writes, "My two puny children gained rapidly in flesh and strength in a very short time after taking VINOL."

We positively know VINOL will build up little ones and make them healthy, strong and robust. Try one bottle, and if you are not satisfied, we will return your money.

QUEENSBORO BRIDGE.

The Greatest Structure of Its Kind in the World.

Measured by the combined length and capacity of its five main spans, the Queensboro bridge, across the East River from Fifty-ninth street, New York, to Ravenswood, Queens, is the greatest bridge in the world. Including approaches its total length is 8,600 feet, width 86 feet and greatest height over 300 feet above the water. It crosses from shore to shore, 125 feet above the river, with three enormous spans of 1,182 feet, 630 feet and 984 feet, the middle one reaching across the full width of Blackwell's Island. Besides these there are two more great "anchor" spans, one at each end, wholly over dry land, with a length of 724 feet for the five, which together outline over 105,000,000 pounds of steel. No other spans in this country, except suspension bridges, approach the longest of these, and the only russed span in the world which exceeds it is the Forth bridge, which, although 1,710 feet long, has a capacity for only two railroad tracks, less than one-third of this. There are two decks, the lower carrying a wide driveway and four electric car tracks and the upper one two sidewalks and two elevated railroad tracks and having in all an estimated capacity of 200,000, 00 car passengers and millions of vehicles and pedestrians annually. It cost over $20,000,000.—Exchange.

The Blind Man's Lantern.

A blind man in Khoota (a Caucasian village) came back from the river one night bringing a pitcher of water and carrying in his hand a lighted lantern. Some one meeting him said: "You're blind. It's all the same to you whether it's day or night. Of what use to you is a lantern?" "I don't carry the lantern in order to see the road," replied the blind man, "but to keep some fool like you from running against me and breaking my pitcher."

His Peers.

"Pa, what does it mean to be tried by a jury of one's peers?"
"It means, my son, that a man is to be tried by a jury composed of men who are his equals or on an equality with him, so that they will have no prejudice against him."

"Then, pa, I s'pose you'd have to be tried by a jury of baldheaded men."

The Widow.

"In a town," said a life insurance official, "where life insurance was a rare thing a schoolteacher said to a little boy pupil:
"Tommy, define the word widow."
"A widow," Tommy answered, "is a poor woman with a large family of children who take boarders."

TRIED TO BE NICE.

But Fannie Made an Awful Mess of It With the Old Lady.

"When Fannie is bent upon pleasing," sighed Fannie's younger sister, "she can certainly make a horrible mess of things. Last Sunday Charlie Evans, having arrived at the point where he felt he wanted his family's opinion of me, invited us both up to take tea with his mother. The minute I laid eyes on his mother I knew Fannie would get in trouble—she simply can't help getting nervously foolish when there's a religious person around.

"Charlie's mother kissed us and, addressing herself to Fannie as the elder, said something about our being very sweet to come and see a daughterless old woman. Whereat Fannie looked at Charlie and his two brothers and replied feelingly that it must be a terrible disappointment to have only them. Mrs. Evans, to rectify my sister's misapprehension, told us proudly that she had three more sons, not present.

"By this time Fannie realized that she had made a bad beginning and leaped further in with the supposition that the other three were off having a good time instead of moping at home. The older lady drew herself up and said severely:

"My three sons are in heaven, Miss Barnes."

"Oh, how awful!" came Fannie's ready gasp.
"No, not awful at all!" and Mrs. Evans was positively glaring at us. "I feel that they were specially blessed in being allowed to pass thus early to their Lord. They died as little children."

"Dear me, how glad you must have been!" blurted out flustered Fannie.

"By this time I had kicked a hole in her ankle, and that quieted her for awhile. She might have kept still for the rest of the evening had not her pet subject, the higher education of woman, come up for the old lady's disapproval. Then Fannie made a hand-spring into the conversation by remarking that when we had more educated mothers there would be less infant mortality.

"And, mind you, Fannie was really trying to be nice for my sake."—New York Times.

Wounds of the Heart.

In wounds of the heart itself the escape of blood is never in large quantity, and the lethal consequences are due to the fact that the escape of blood from within its cavity or cavities into the surrounding sac of the pericardium mechanically interrupts the alternate contraction and expansion by which its pumping action is maintained. Accordingly the results of the wound of the heart are usually identical with those of gradual suffocation.

Opportunity.

In one of the old Greek cities there stood long ago a statue. Every trace of it has vanished now, but there is still in existence an epigram which gives us an excellent description of it, and as we read the words we can surely discover the lesson which those wise old Greeks meant that the statue should teach to every passerby. The epigram is in the form of a conversation between a traveler and the statue:

"What is thy name, O statue?"

"Who made thee?"

"Lysippos."

"Why art thou on thy toes?"

"To show that I stay but a moment."

"Why hast thou wings on thy feet?"

"To show how quickly I pass by."

"But why is thy hair so long on thy forehead?"

"That men may seize me when they meet me."

"Why, then, is thy head so bald behind?"

"To show that when I have once passed I cannot be caught."

Dropping the Curtain.

"No, Mr. Siowun," said the fair possessor of the square chin, "I must respectfully decline to become your other half."

"But why?" asked the astonished young man, who had believed that he was the favored one.

"Because," replied the female extender of the frosty digit, "the man I marry must be brave and fearless. Tonight you let out the information that you have loved me for five long, weary years, but have not dared mention it until the present meeting. A man who has no more nerve than that would hide under the bed while his wife went downstairs to interview a burglar who was making a raid on the family larder. Therefore, Mr. Siowun, I will work the piano for a little slow music while the curtain drops on the farewell scene. You will find your hat on the usual peg of the hall rack. Good evening!"—London Mail.

Speculative Life Insurance.

A mania for speculative insurances on the lives of public personages prevailed in England during the eighteenth century. Warren Hastings, the pretender, the rebel lords or the unfortunate Admiral Byng answered equally the purpose of speculation, and there were also regular quotations on the lives of notorious highwaymen. Sir Robert Walpole at one period of his career, when his life was endangered by popular tumults, was insured for many thousands, and when George II. fought at Dettingen 25 per cent was paid against his return. Such speculative insurances were, however, largely checked by the gambling act of 1774, which made insurable interest a necessary condition for a valid policy.—Argonaut.

INVESTORS WARNED AGAINST SWINDLE IN SALE OF STOCK

In view of certain schemes that have been projected for the establishment of a string of theatres over the country by syndicates, the Index Film, the leading American publication of the photoplay, warns the public against these projects as an investment. The Index states that a number of such projects are formed and the public is urged to make investments in the big profits that the moving picture business is alleged to command. These schemes are for the most part of the independent film makers who are said to be in constant danger of prosecutions for infringements and confiscations of their films. The standard film manufacturers, which have contracts in all the leading cities and towns, are close corporations and are not seeking stock subscriptions. These are the films that practically control the situation, and the so-called independent are said to have a precarious existence. In addition to warning the public against stock investments of this sort, the Index Film thinks the postoffice department should also investigate some of the schemes that are seeking stock subscriptions.

For Business Use

There are a great many places and occasions when the possibility of getting extra heat immediately effects an economy by decreasing the discomfort of the worker. In the office, in the early morning or late at night, before or after the steamheat is on, it is of importance to have extra heat. In the builder's outside office, in the shipping room, in the checker's shack, on exposed lofts, in railroad stations, in studios, the

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER Absolutely smokeless and odorless is often a necessity. It is safe, smokeless and odorless. Apply a match, and it gives heat quickly. With four quarts of oil it burns nine hours. Has automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be cleaned in an instant.

It has a cool handle and a damper top. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for reworking.

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel. It is strong, durable, well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

Pittsburg Steel to Increase Stock Streets Claim Council's Attention

ESTABLISHMENT OF GRADES FOR STREETS IS ORDERED

Council Instructs Engineer to Set Stakes on Look-out Avenue and on Cherry Alley

With all members present except Councilman C. O. Frye, who was out of town council spent last evening at a regular adjourned session, in finishing up business left over from a previous meeting. Streets and lights claimed most of the attention, and some matters of importance were disposed of.

One thing on which action was taken was to have the grade set on Cherry alley, between Third and Fourth street. This will mean the cutting down of a annoying hump and be a step toward the much desired paving of this alley.

The final estimate for paving and grading work done on McKean avenue between Charleroi and North Charleroi by Piper and Hastings, was made, and the job having been pronounced satisfactory, the balance of $849.66 due in their favor was ordered paid.

A petition largely signed by members of the Methodist Episcopal congregation and property owners for an arc light at the corner of Sixth street and Lincoln avenue was received and favorably acted upon. The light committee was instructed to see that the light at the corner of Lincoln avenue at the northern extremity of the borough be changed to a more suitable location on McKean avenue.

The borough engineer was instructed to procure the grade of Look-out avenue between Second and Third streets and to set stakes so that permanent sidewalks can be laid. The matter of granting the Macbeth-Evans Glass company rights to occupy Eighth street for contemplated improvements was discussed, but no action taken. Owing to the absence of Mr. Frye, who is chairman of a special committee on the sewage disposal plant matter, this question was not taken up.

A movement has been started by the Pennsylvania Child Labor Association that will have a material bearing in Charleroi. This is to prohibit boys under 16 years of age from working in glass factories at night. At the 1909 session of the Legislature when the present child labor laws were enacted, glass factories were not included in the night work exemption clause. It is necessary to operate glass plants continuously night and day in most instances, and it was pointed out that as the adjoining States did not prohibit night work by boys under 16 such a law would work a hardship on the glass manufacturers of Pennsylvania, and render them unable to compete with their rival in the adjoining States. A large amount of the work in glass ware plants is done by boys, and if an industry in one section were obliged to pay more for this labor than in other sections, the former would practically be put out of business.

Investigations were made at the Imperial Bottle factory in Charleroi at the time, where the largest number of minors are employed nights, and it was shown that the hours were not excessive nor the duties any more arduous than usual, and that, if the boys on the night turn went home and retired promptly when their work was finished, they had ample time for rest and recuperation.

Since then, however, New Jersey has abolished night work for boys in glass houses and it is also prohibited in Ohio, Illinois and New York. This year the campaign for night work abolitionism will be pushed in West Virginia, Indiana and Pennsylvania. Action has been taken by the Pennsylvania Child Labor Association in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and a vigorous effort will be made to secure an amendment to the child labor laws which will prohibit the employment of boys' nights under 16 years of age.

Extensive Improvements to Be Made as Previously Announced at the Monessen Plant

Details of the plan for financing the construction of blast furnaces to be erected at Monessen by the Pittsburg Steel company have just been made public. The announcement that these improvements were to be made at Monessen was first published in the Mail on October 26. This announcement was not confirmed at the time by the company, but subsequent events have proven that the information secured and made public by the Mail was correct.

According to the published statement the Pittsburg Steel company proposes to increase its capital stock by $8,000,000. The increase will consist of $7,000,000 new 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $1,000,000 additional common stock, which will bring the company's capitalization to $7,000,000 preferred and $7,000,000 common stock. Wallace H. Rowe, the president of the company, left for New York Saturday night and last night communicated to members of the company in Pittsburgh that the negotiations for the new issue had all been completed.

Speyer and Co. of New York have closed negotiations for the purchase of the $7,000,000 per cent cumulative preferred stock, preferred as to both assets and dividends over the common stock and the $1,000,000 common stock has been subscribed for by the present owners of the property. The preferred stock will be listed on the New York Stock Exchange and Speyer and Co will place the same with investors and institutions both here and abroad.

The present board of directors, consisting of Wallace H. Rowe, president; John Bindley, first vice president; Willis F. McCook, second vice president; Emil Winter, E. H. Bindley and George Nash will be increased to nine members and it is understood that William H. Nicholas, the chairman of the General Chemical company of New York; Wm. A. Nash, president of the Corn Exchange Bank of New York and Henry Rubler of Speyer and Co. will enter the directorate.

The present bondholders will be offered the privilege of exchanging their bonds, called for repayment January 1, 1911, for the new preferred stock at the Union Trust company of Pittsburgh. The new preferred stock will be the first charge on the earnings of the company which for the past few years have averaged about $1,400,000 or almost three times the annual dividend on the $7,000,000 7 per cent preferred stock to be issued, or at the rate of about 20 per cent per annum.

Among the improvements planned is the building of a battery of blast furnaces at Monessen to supply the company with its own pig-iron. The company purchased the ground for the new furnaces sometime ago and it is announced that the contracts for the ore, coke and other necessities have been placed.

ACTION IS INEVITABLE

The action of the Government in declaring the Imperial Window Glass company a violator of the Sherman anti-trust law and other fining of the officers with the warning to dissolve the corporation will work a hardship on the window glass workers in the several plants under the control of the defendant corporation.

It was officially stated that unless there is a special meeting of the National Window Glass Workers' Union to readjust the wage scale which means a heavy reduction in wages every glass company in the country making hand made glass will be forced to go out of business. J. M. Neenan, president of the workers' organization it is understood, will call a meeting of the executive committee this week to take steps to have the wage scale revised.

Word was received in Pittsburgh Saturday night that every factory controlled by the Imperial company in Fayette county will block tanks indefinitely. This action will throw out of employment between 700 and 800 men. Three of the factories are already blocked in the Confederated

Two tanks at Morgantown, W. Va., were blocked on Thursday. There is little hope of resumption unless the men decide to accept a reduction of 30 per cent in their wages. There is no chance of an increase in the price of glass because of the American Window Glass company's low cost on machine-made glass.

CRUSADE STARTED FOR OBSERVANCE OF SABBATH

Monessen Ministers Institute Movement for Betterment of Moral Conditions Across River

HAPPENINGS IN THE NEIGHBORING TOWN

Monessen ministers have inaugurated a crusade for a better observance of the Sabbath in the steel town, judging from some of the sermons delivered Sunday from the local pulpits there. It seems that the ministers have been making a study of conditions for the past six months or more, and some hot shot were fired at the alleged violators of that commandment. One of the ministers made the statement that anything could be bought in Monessen on Sunday from a suit of clothes or an order of groceries to a drink of booze. Clubs do a thriving business, while speakeasies and gambling joints are also alleged to be in operation. It is possible that an effort will be made to screw down the lid in view of these ministerial exposures.

Monessen is becoming quite a pugilistic centre. Since Prof. A. I. Martin has opened his athletic club in the steel town he has put on at the opera house some clever boxing exhibitions, which have been participated in by several Charleroi boxers. At each of these exhibitions Martin secures the services of a professional of his own class, and with himself the other principal gives a clever main bout. The preliminaries are usually by local principals from the adjoining towns, many of whom are Martin's pupils. Last Saturday night Martin met Jimmy Trimble, a lightweight from Pittsburgh, and had a shade the better of the fistic argument. Preliminaries were by Ed. Neudorfer of Monessen and Young Gilmore of Charleroi, and Brownie O'Toole of Monessen and Wm. Coulter of Charleroi. Gilmore was put to sleep, but Coulter fought his man to a draw.

Burgess Daniel Reamer is of the opinion that Monessen is in need of a moral house-cleaning in the way of ridding the town of some human vampires that prey upon the well known weaknesses of human nature. His observation was prompted by a case in hand when he fined Mrs. Georgia Antura $25 and costs. Georgia was charged with making goosoo eyes at John Seora and Salvadore DeChino, and when she had lured them into an alley she is alleged to have dexteriously touched them for $55 and $15 respectively. The woman is said to be an expert in this ancient bawdy game.

The Bachelors have issued invitations for a Thanksgiving dance to be given Tuesday evening, November 22, in Turner hall. Gounod's orchestra has been engaged for the occasion and the event gives promise of being one of the popular social successes of the season.

The Star concert band under the management of J. G. Staudenmayer is rehearsing a program to be rendered at a free concert in Turner hall on Sunday evening, Nov. 27. After the first of next month the band will be known as the Monessen Turner band.

The Lady Maccabees and their friends are cordially invited to attend a social to be given at the home of Mrs. Peter Schone, corner Seventh and Schoonmaker avenue, this evening. Cards and other amusements will be indulged in. A fifteen cent lunch will be served.

of the Lady Maccabees. The hostess was agreeably surprised, but entered into the occasion in her usual hospitable manner. She was presented with a beautiful bunch of jumbo chrysanthemums and a maiden hair fern. A delicious and bountiful lunch was served. The evening was spent in instrumental music and social conversation.

Man Is Horribly Injured At the Local Siding

IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Not noticing the approach of a shifting engine to the string of cars, in the hopper of one of which he was working, Mike Pollock, a Slav employed by the Donora Construction company, had his left leg crushed a few inches above the ankle yesterday. The man was engaged in shoveling gravel from the hopper of the car on local siding. When the engine bumped into the string of cars he was thrown under the wheels and one leg was caught. Pollock was released and Dr. J. K. Smith called. The man was taken to the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela, and it will be necessary to amputate the leg below the knee. He lived at Tenth street and is about 45 years old.

Helps Us Too

The definite announcement that the

Pittsburg Steel company is to build

blast furnaces at Monessen means a

big industrial development for this section. While this addition will

primarily benefit Monessen, the

proximity of that town to Charleroi,

and the connection of the two communities by the new bridge at North

Charleroi, practically unites Char-

leroi with Monessen, and any improvement in the one town must of necessity have more or less influence upon

the other. This improvement will give a big impetus to the bustling

steel town across the river, and will

add materially to the population,

standing and prestige.

Thus, vicariously, will Charleroi be benefitted. Our town will catch the

overflow from Monessen, which will

be considerable at the start. This

addition should advance the interests

of North Charleroi, and enhance its

importance as a residence community.

That community offers some splendid

opportunities for homes for working

people, and in all probability this

will be utilized to the fullest extent

during the next two or three years.

House Diseases

The free exhibits and lectures about

tuberculosis to be given at Monessen

and Monongahela shortly should command the attention of the public.

The object of these lectures, which

are under the auspices of the State

Board of Health, is to impress upon

the people the danger of contracting

this dread disease as well as to avoid the tendencies that invite its contagion. The lecturers will no doubt

warn the people that this season of

the year is conducive to colds, pneumonia, bronchitis and all other affections of the respiratory organs. They will also dwell upon the fact that tuberculosis and respiratory affections are once diseases, and due

for the most part to lack of fresh air.

All this is good advice. It is now

conceded that the only treatment for

tuberculosis is fresh air, and if this will cure pneumonia, cases of the Great White Plague, must of necessity have a prophylactic influence

upon respiratory affections which are the base of the shot in population

everywhere. Get out in the air every

day and move around if you would

and kindred affections. These are

all house diseases, and they can be

most successfully combatted by the

preventive treatment of fresh air
and exercise.

Agitation Hurts

With the close of the campaign

and election over, it is well to drop

the agitation that has divided the

people of this Commonwealth and

kept business practically at a standstill while the merits and de-

merits of the respective candidates

were discussed. Feeling ran high,

and in many instances much personal rancor was manifested. In the interests of social, personal

and business relations this should be

dropped and not permitted to continue

to the extent of creating local or

personal factions or feuds. The van-

quished should gracefully take his

medicine and the victor can afford

to be gracious and not rub it in.

There is nothing to apprehend from

the result of the election in the State. The government will be in

safe hands and will be continued along

the same clean and progressive lines

that marked Governor Stuart's administration. The people will not be afraid of anything else, and in view of the spirit of inequity that has

been manifested every official from

highest to lowest will be obliged to

good" in the eyes of the public. The

officials must administer public

affairs in the interest of all citizens

alike, and no discriminations can be made. Useless opposition and agitation is harmful like to both the agita-

tors and the community.

called San Cura.

Every person ought to have a jar on

hand; it is the first and best aid to

the injured in case of accident and

distressing and painful ailments besides.

For example: it is guaranteed by

W. F. Hennings to cure itching, bleed-

ing and protruding piles, eczema,

tetter, ulcers, salt rheum, boils, car-

buncles and pimples or money back.

In case of old or running sores, no

matter how long standing, a few

poultices of San Cura ointment will

draw out every particle of poison, and

leave it in such a thoroughly antiseptic

condition that the sore will heal,

never break open again.

We advise every reader to get a jar

of San Cura ointment today and keep

it ready for an accident or emergency

that may happen 25 cents and 50

"I don't carry the lantern in order to see the road," replied the blind man, "but to keep some fool from running against me and taking my pitcher."

His Peers.

"What does it mean to be tried by one's peers?" means, my son, that a man is to be judged by a jury composed of men are his equals or on an equality with him, so that they will have no bias against him."

The Widow.

"A town," said a life insurance agent, "where life insurance was a thing a schoolteacher said to a boy pupil: 'Tommy, define the word widow.' 'Widow,' Tommy answered, 'is a woman with a large family of who take boarders.'"

But Fannie Made an Awful Mess of It With the Old Lady.

"When Fannie is bent upon pleasing," sighed Fannie's younger sister, "she can certainly make a horrible mess of things. Last Sunday Charlie Evans, having arrived at the point where he felt he wanted his family's opinion of me, invited us both up to take tea with his mother. The minute I laid eyes on his mother I knew Fannie would get in trouble—she simply can't help getting nervously foolish when there's a religious person around. "Charlie's mother kissed us and, addressing herself to Fannie as the elder, said something about our being very sweet to come and see a daughterless old woman. Whereat Fannie looked at Charlie and his two brothers and replied feelingly that it must be a terrible disappointment to have only them. Mrs. Evans, to rectify my sister's misapprehension, told us proudly that she had three more sons, not present."

"By this time Fannie realized that she had made a bad beginning and leaped further in with the supposition that the other three were off having a good time instead of moping at home. The older lady drew herself up and said severely: "My three sons are in heaven. Miss Barnes."

"Oh, how awful!" came Fannie's ready gasp. "No, not awful at all!" and Mrs. Evans was positively glaring at us. "I feel that they were specially blessed in being allowed to pass thus early to their Lord. They died as little children."

"Dear me, how glad you must have been!" blurted out dustered Fannie. "By this time I had kicked a hole in her ankle, and that quieted her for awhile. She might have kept still for the rest of the evening had not her pet subject, the higher education of woman, come up for the old lady's disapproval. Then Fannie made a hand-spring into the conversation by remarking that when we had more educated mothers there would be less infant mortality."

"And, mind you, Fannie was really trying to be nice for my sake."—New York Times.

Wounds of the Heart.

In wounds of the heart itself the escape of blood is never in large quantity, and the lethal consequences are due to the fact that the escape of blood from within its cavity or cavities into the surrounding sac of the pericardium mechanically interrupts the alternate contraction and expansion by which its pumping action is maintained. Accordingly the results of the wound of the heart are usually identical with those of gradual suffocation.

Opportunity.

In one of the old Greek cities there stood long ago a statue. Every trace of it has vanished now, but there is still in existence an epigram which gives us an excellent description of it, and as we read the words we can surely discover the lesson which those wise old Greeks meant that the statue should teach to every passerby. The epigram is in the form of a conversation between a traveler and the statue:—"What is thy name, O statue?"—"I am called Opportunity."—"Who made thee?"—"Lysippus."—"Why art thou on thy toes?"—"To show that I stay but a moment."—"Why hast thou wings on thy feet?"—"To show how quickly I pass by."—"But why is thy hair so long on thy forehead?"—"That men may seize me when they meet me."—"Why, then, is thy head so bald behind?"—"To show that when I have once passed I cannot be caught."

Dropping the Curtain.

"No, Mr. Slowun," said the fair possessor of the square chin, "I must respectfully decline to become your other half."

"But why?" asked the astonished young man, who had believed that he was the favored one. "Because," replied the female extender of the frosty digit, "the man I marry must be brave and fearless. Tonight you let out the information that you have loved me for five long, weary years, but have not dared mention it until the present meeting. A man who has no more nerve than that would hide under the bed while his wife went downstairs to interview a burglar who was making a raid on the family larder. Therefore, Mr. Slowun, I will work the curtain drops on the farewell scene. You will find your hat on the usual peg of the hall rack. Good evening!"—London Mail.

Speculative Life Insurance.

A mania for speculative insurances on the lives of public personages prevailed in England during the eighteenth century. Warren Hastings, the pretender, the rebel lords or the unfortunate Admiral Byng answered equally the purpose of speculation, and there were also regular quotations on the lives of notorious highwaymen. Sir Robert Walpole at one period of his career, when his life was endangered by popular tumults, was insured for many thousands, and when George II. fought at Dettingen 25 per cent was paid against his return. Such speculative insurances were, however, largely checked by the gambling act of 1774, which made insurable interest a necessary condition for a valid policy.—Argonaut.

Many of Them Are Alarmed At Champ Clark's Reckless Threats

THIS STATE IN SAFE HANDS

Senator Penrose Will Advance to a Position of Real Importance at the Next Session of the American Congress.

The Democrats of the country are already at each other's throats over the spoils of their very uncertain political victory. Scarcely had the votes been counted after the election of last week when Champ Clark, of Missouri, probably the most conspicuous Democrat in the American Congress, threw the leaders of his party in the country into a spasm by declaring that he would not only be the next speaker of the lower house of Congress but also that his first and most important business would be to get to it that the tariff legislation under which the industries of the country are now operating successfully should be revised and recast in harmony with the free trade doctrine of his party. Mr. Clark, the Missouri Congressman, is very able and ordinarily is very interesting. So long as he was conspicuous only as the minority leader in Congress he was deservedly popular, but when his party had advanced to the majority in the lower house what he had promised during his campaign and what he threatened after his election became more or less alarming, especially to his colleagues from the South, many of whom had voted with the Republicans in the enactment of the existing tariff laws which have continued prosperity in the North and advanced industrial conditions generally in the South. When Mr. Clark had thrilled his Missouri audiences during his campaign for re-election by declaring that if the next House should be Democratic he certainly would be elected speaker to succeed Uncle Joe Cannon and after his election he would regularly go from his Washington home to the national capitol in a farm wagon drawn by two Missouri mules people generally understood that he was joking. This was especially true of the people outside of Missouri. But the fellows down in old Missouri, where they insist upon being shown, accepted his declaration in good faith and they are insisting that his campaign pledges be carried out to the letter. However, there are other Democrats in Congress and they are against the Missouri mule stunt and they are just as decidedly against the Clark declaration that the tariff laws shall be torn up by the roots and the indications are that Mr. Clark will not be allowed to parade himself as Democracy's leader behind the Missouri mules going to and from his congressional duties and as a guarantee that his campaign pledges were for vote getting purposes and intended as dust to blind the voters he is not likely to be chosen speaker as the leaders of his own party will approach the question of tariff revision with the greatest fear and trembling and when they do approach it Mr. Clark is more likely to be a clown than a leader. Mr. Clark, however, will not be the only Democrat in Congress who will go there pledged to a variety of ridiculous propositions. Quite a few of the gentlemen elected to Congress by the Democrats and Keystoneers in Pennsylvania are pledged to work wonders immediately after their arrival in Washington. These pledges like Mr. Clark's pledge to go to and from his congressional duties in a farm wagon drawn by Missouri mules were not made in good faith. They were made because they appealed to the voters who allowed their prejudices to be played upon and who helped the scheming candidates to outrage their intelligence. The Democratic side of the lower house of Congress will be the larger. On that majority side will be representatives of all the political isms—representatives pledged to every popular policy from the rank free-trader to the anarchist—but the Senate will be safely and sanely Republican. The total membership of the Senate is 92 and of these 51 will be Republicans. Back of this majority in the Senate will be President Taft, who is also safe and sane, so that the reckless pledges made by the bulk of the majority in the lower house actually served their real purpose when they fooled the voters into making the lower house of Congress Democratic or rather miscellaneous.

Fortunately, indeed, Pennsylvania will not suffer much from the recent freak election. The Legislature of this State will be overwhelmingly Republican and the State is certain to have two Republican United States Senators at Washington. No serious opposition is likely to develop to the election of George T. Oliver to succeed himself and with Senator E. Penrose, the senior Senator from the State, recognized and accepted as the leader of his party not only in the Senate but in the Nation; his accepted intimacy with President Taft and his deep concern for industrial prosperity not only in Pennsylvania but in the Nation, Pennsylvanians generally have reason and ground for real pride. Senator Penrose will be at the head of several of the most important committees in the next Senate. The Southern brigadiers will head all the important committees on the House side and under such circumstances it will be the pleasure of Pennsylvanians to get as close as possible to Senator Penrose who must be depended upon to safeguard the best interests of the whole people while the make-shift statesmen are endeavoring to make good their freak campaign pledges. The interests of the people of Pennsylvania are therefore fortunately in safe hands.

Chinese Filial Piety.

The following Chinese story illustrates the national regard for filial piety: A man and his wife maltreated the husband's mother. As a punishment the scene of the act was openly cursed, the active agents were put to death, and the mother of the wife was bamboozed, branded and exiled for her daughter's crime. The house in which the offenders lived was dug up from the foundations. Moreover, the scholars of the district were precluded from attending public examinations, and even the magistrates were deprived of their offices. These drastic measures were designed to render the empire filial.

Sickly Children

Letters from Mothers

"I wish I could induce every mother, who has a delicate, sickly child, to try your delicious Cod Liver and Iron Tonic VINOL. It restored our little daughter to health and strength after everything else had failed."—Mrs. C. W. STUMP, Canton, Ohio.

Mrs. F. P. Skonnard, of Minneapolis, Minn., writes, "I want to recommend VINOL to every mother who has a weak or sickly child. My little boy was sickly, pale, and had no appetite for two years. I tried different medicines and doctors without benefit, but thanks to VINOL, he is a well and healthy boy to-day."

C. Allen, of New Bedford, Mass., writes, "My two puny children regained rapidly in flesh and strength in a very short time after taking VINOL."

We positively know VINOL will build up little ones and make them healthy, strong and robust. Try one bottle, and if you are not satisfied, we will return your money.

In view of certain schemes that have been projected for the establishment of a string of theatres over the country by syndicates, the Index Film, the leading American publication of the photoplay, warns the public against these projects as an investment. The Index states that a number of such projects are formed and the public is urged to make investments in the big profits that the moving picture business is alleged to command. These schemes are for the most part of the independent film makers who are said to be in constant danger of prosecutions for infringements and confiscations of their films. The standard film manufacturers, which have contracts in all the leading cities and towns, are close corporations and are not seeking stock subscriptions. These are the films that practically control the situation, and the so-called independent are said to have a precarious existence.

In addition to warning the public against stock investments of this sort, the Index Film thinks the postoffice department should also investigate some of the schemes that are seeking stock subscriptions.
